

Andrew G. Malar

Andrew G. Malar October 13, 2010 Andy G. Malar, 58, passed away Wednesday at his home in Lakeland. Born in Detroit, MI, he grew up in Camillus and was a 1970 graduate of Solvay High School and also received a degree in electronics. Andy retired from Magna after 19 years as a tool and gauge inspector, winning company-wide recognition for his innovative teaching on gauging. He was a shop steward with UAW #624 and a Cub Scout leader of Pack #60. An avid hunter, fisherman and trapper, he was a skilled gunsmith and owned Precision Gunsmithing. He was also a member of the Elbridge Rod & Gun Club and Orchard Game Club. Andy was a French and Indian historian and participated in 1700s and 1800s historical reenactments at Rendezvous as a free trapper. He was proud of his Harley motorcycle and was a member of the Valley Desperados. Andy was predeceased by his wife, Judy Malar, in May 2010 and father, Pawlo Malar, in 2005. He was engaged to be married to Darby Anderson of Camillus. Surviving are his son, Steven of Camillus; mother, Myroslawa Malar of Syracuse; sister, Nadia (Bob) Andrews of Camillus; nephews, John (Anne Marie) Andrews of Syracuse and Philip Andrews of Boston, MA; cousins, Wilma Messmer of Seattle, WA, and Christine Lindon of Bloomfield Hills, MI; great-niece, Darianne; and great-nephews, Anthony and Johnathan, all of Syracuse.
